

Out On Film Reviews

Down in Paris

[...] The standout moments happen when Barlow has discussions between a treasure of performances by veteran actors Dominique Frot, Jean-Christophe Bouvet, and Manuel Blanc. The conversations are relevant to the plot as it strips away the caricature of Paris and unveils its true heart through the people who live and love there. “Down in Paris” is a redemptive story that is a true gem of a film that delivers incredible performances fitting for the City of Lights you won’t soon forget.

Extrait de l'article de Edward Adams, paru dans the GA voice September 24, 2021